An Evil Laws

Can't Cure

When conversation turns to business, there is frequently heard the complaint that people are at times the victims of shady dealings, and through no fault of their own. It is pointed out that this firm or that has worked within the letter of the contract or the law, at the same time, however, transacting certain business which when brought down to the final analysis, cannot be considered as squaring with the yardstick of integrity. Attention is also drawn to the manner in which several financial houses have been or are accustomed to handle their own affairs and the affairs of their clients. The undue watering of stocks and manipulations of this character generally, are called into question. Items of expenditure seem to be very casually explained at times by directors and executives. Several people also look askance at the manner in which installment selling is managed.

And let us admit quite truthfully that there is often justifiable cause for much criticism. We do not suggest that Canadian business on the whole is tainted with the brush of opportunist transactions, or, in other words, playing expediently before principle. Of course it isn't. We do feel, however, in common with a great many thinking people, that as regards the integrity of certain phases in our economic life, underhanded aspects, of which we have noted a few above, are inclined in some instances to be prevalent.

Business to be worthy of the name must be conducted in accordance with the most scrupulous ethical standards. Business men themselves accordingly must be deeply impregnated with a proper sense of responsibility. Inasmuch as one of the principal bases of business is confidence, men of business must fully vindicate the trust imposed upon and assumed by them.

Our criticism of certain current practices and conditions therefore resolves itself into a pointing out of the lack of responsibility manifested by those concerned. How can this unfortunate shortcoming be corrected? Some suggest that laws should be enacted which would be so stringent that nobody could stray from the straight and narrow. But that would never do because it is tantamount to a denial of confidence in all business men, because such laws would undoubtedly become in time more of a hindrance than a help, and because laws cannot beget a sense of responsibility; and just as the latter is the more developed, the unfortunate circumstances we have in mind will be the less apparent.

How then can a profound sense of responsibility be made more widely to permeate throughout the business community? It can in part be fostered by admonition and enriched examples. It can be presented a desirable by an appeal to ideas which are innate in all of us. It can be furthered by stressing the reward which never fails to result from the sense of responsibility properly manifested in business. It can, furthermore, be cultivated and also strengthened by tradition. If we concentrate on enriching the "tradition of business" in Canada, unsavory practices will be less evident. High principles and strict integrity are encouraged and protected by tradition. It is also a thought that we should individually develop within ourselves the recognition that we should be as particular about the things we share and handle as we are about the things we own.

Unfortunately, there are some who believe that material success is all important. They see reputation as being made as a result partially of dollar accomplishment though they fail to realize that reputations are not gained by material reverses but only by lack of integrity, unscrupulousness, dishonesty or "sharp dealing."

Principles and business men must be related by and infused with ideals and the high ideal in business is the man-ifesting of a sense of responsibility under any circumstances, no matter how trying these circumstances may

THE TAXPAYER'S LAMENT

Tax the people, tax with care,
To help the multi-millionaire.
Tax the farmer, tax his fowl,
Tax the dog and tax his howl.
Tax the hen and tax her egg,
And let the blonkin' muddlin' beg.
Tax the pig and tax his squeal,
Tax his boots run down at heel.
Tax his horses, tax his loads,
Tax the blisters on his hands.
Tax the plow and tax his clothes,
Tax the rag that wipes his nose.
Tax his house and tax his bed,
Tax the bald spot on his head.
Tax his ox and tax his ass,
Tax his "Henry," tax his gas.
Tax the road that he must pass,
And make him travel on the grass.
Tax his cow and tax his calf,
Tax him if he dares to laugh.
He is but a common man,
Tax the cuss, just a' you can.
Tax the laborer, be discreet,
Tax him for walking on the street.
Tax his bread, and tax his meat,
Tax the shoes clear off his feet.
Tax the payroll, tax the sale,
Tax his hard-earned paper hale.
Tax his pipe and tax his smoke,
Teach him gov'ment is no joke.
Tax their coffins, tax their shrines,
Tax their souls beyond the clouds.
Tax all business, tax the shops,
Tax their incomes, tax their stocks.
Tax the living, tax the dead,
Tax the unborn before they're fed.
Tax the water, tax the air,
Tax the sunlight if you dare.
Tax them seventy times seven,
Tax them to the gates of heaven.
But close your eyes so you can't see,
The coupon clipper go tax free.

— The Optimist

Let us mark what John S. MacKenzie, the British authority on ethics has to say:

"A man cannot regard himself as a mere animal nor can a society of men regard its members as simply animals. They must be regarded as beings animated by an ideal which they are bound to aim at realizing and which they can realize as soon as they become aware of the obligation."

There is the crux of the situation. The sense of responsibility in business can be fully achieved as we "become aware of the obligation."

The solution of the problem of business opportunism, such as it exists is the impregnating of business men with a highly developed recognition of their responsibility and obligations, both to themselves and to the public. The evil which invades us cannot be cured by laws because responsibility cannot be objectively possessed. It is a part of the individual himself. It can only be cultivated from within. It is an accomplishment of personality.

We may well intensify and emphasize a high idealism in Canadian business for as it has been aptly remarked, "That nation is safe which, as its energies expand, sees its ideal also brighten."

— Commerce of the Nation.

Genealogical Convention at Magrath

The Genealogical Convention of the three Canadian Stakes held in the Magrath Assembly Hall on Saturday and Sunday last, was well attended by representatives from all three Stakes who met there to receive instruction and teaching from Bishop Christensen and Archie Bennett, the latter being well known in Magrath, Raymond and Taber.

The sessions on Saturday and Sunday morning were in the nature of classes where instructions were given on how to commence the search for genealogy and how to record and prepare Temple records, etc.

Sunday afternoon the lessons taught on Genealogy, Book of Remembrance work and so on were in the form of lectures and a very interesting program was carried out. The Assembly Hall was filled to the doors by Earl P. Tanner, Stake Chairman of the Genealogical Committee of the Taylor Stake was in charge, and the music was under the direction of J. Orson Bridge.

Master Reed Bennett told of two faith promoting incidents in the life of his grandfather, and a chorus of young girls sang "I Want to See the Temple."

Emerson Blumel, a Priest, then spoke to the subject "My Heritage as a Descendant of Ephraim."

Mrs. T. C. Jones sang a Vocal Solo. Martin Miller, a teacher, then related incidents of Divine Guidance in Obtaining Records.

Bishop Christensen on behalf of the Genealogical Committee of the Church presented each of these three young men with the Church award for the special activity they had performed on the program.

Lynn Gibb then sang a vocal arrangement of the 23rd Psalm.

President Arthur Wellings of the North-Central States Mission, was the next speaker. He expressed his joy at being able to attend this Convention, where he had received new light and new determination to carry out better his work in the Mission field. He related several incidents in the history of his family showing the devotion and faith of his ancestors in the Gospel cause.

A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. Ruth Heninger.

Archie Bennett was the concluding speaker. He exhibited his Book of Remembrance, and mentioned a few of the best and proven systems for obtaining information for one of these books, and related many spiritual manifestations that he had heard and bore witness of in connection with the importance of genealogy and Temple work.

The entire meeting was very interesting, and everyone present felt well repaid for the effort put forth to be able to attend.

Sunday Night Meeting

A conjoint meeting of the two Raymond wards was held in the St. Luke House on Sunday night last, with Wm. Redd, Chairman of the First Ward Genealogical Committee conducting the meeting, and the combined choral under the leadership of C. B. Strong furnished the music. A good attendance was present and greatly enjoyed the program.

The first speaker was Earl P. Tanner, Stake Chairman of Genealogical work who stressed the necessity of Temple work, and spoke of the mission of Elijah, and the great change that had come over the hearts of men since that visitation in 1833. He encouraged all, especially the young, to get their Book of Remembrance started and filled up, and urged the older ones to tell their faith-promoting experiences to the rising generation that the knowledge things, may not be lost, and that the testimonies of the younger people may be strengthened thereby. These experiences that we all have are not given us to lock up and say nothing about, but to pass on to our children for their benefit.

Lynn Gibb then rendered a Vocal Solo.

Archie Bennett was the next speaker. He urged the youth of the Church to go to the Patriarch and get their blessings under his hands and find out who they are and the blessings that are promised them, and then act out to obtain a realization of these blessings. Spoke of the blessings of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob as recorded in Holy Writ, and the promises we have of attaining to and obtaining these blessings if we are faithful. He related a number of spiritual manifestations that had occurred in a number of the Temples in connection with work for the dead, and bore his testimony to the necessity and value of work for our dead ancestors.

After another solo by Lynn Gibb, and the benediction, the meeting adjourned.

Edmonton, July 12—Delayed reports of Sunday's storm tell of fairly extensive damage from hail to crops south and east of the city. Heaviest damage is reported from the district south of Daysland where losses are estimated to range from 50 to 100 per cent. In an area covering 15,000 acres.

Near Millet the storm swept a narrow strip, doing damage of between 15 and 20 per cent. The area affected covers 4,500 acres.

Damage of from 10 to 15 per cent. is reported in the district surrounding Wetaskiwin. Only a small acreage of grain was cut down by the hail in that locality however.

Crops Pounded To Pulp By Hail In Southern Saskatchewan Area--Thousands of Acres Laid Waste

Edmonton, July 11. — The worst hail storm of 1932 this week-end swept on an area of 120 mile from Bulyea eastward, laying waste to thousands of acres of crops, pounded down garden stuffs and broke thousands of window panes.

The storm spent itself on Oakshella and Broadview on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Damage will cause about 100 per cent. loss to farmers.

Prior to the hailstorm a heavy rain struck the district and residents were placed at the thought of more moisture for their crops—but the hail followed.—Lethbridge Herald.

Bank of Montreal Crop Report

(Issued at Winnipeg, July 7, 1932)

GENERAL

In the Prairie Provinces cool weather and heavy fairly general rains have promoted good growth of all crops. Wheat is now heading out over the entire prairies with Manitoba the furthest advanced, and prospects for a good crop are quite encouraging. In Quebec the indications are that the hay crop will be under average. Continued favorable weather is benefitting other crops. In Central all crops are progressing satisfactorily, and the outlook is for heavy yields in the eastern section where conditions are average. In British Columbia indications are far above average yields of crops generally. Details follow:—

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

ALBERTA: Northeastern Area:—Cool weather has retarded growth slightly. Wheat is heading with the straw fairly short. Moisture is sufficient and damage is negligible. Southern Area:—Warmer weather and rainfalls have promoted satisfactory growth of all crops. About 30 p.c. of the wheat is now headed, with the straw a good length. Pasture is plentiful. Western Area:—Crops are progressing satisfactorily with ample moisture. Damage is negligible except in the Cardston area where there has been some hail damage. Considerable leaf damage to sugar beets by weevil worms is now being checked and damaged fields are expected to recover. The first alfalfa and sweet clover crops have been cut, the yield is heavy. Pasture is plentiful.

SASKATCHEWAN: Northern Area:—Rains have been general during the past week and clear warm weather is needed. Wheat is practically all in shot blade with about 20 p.c. headed. Coarse grains are making progress and pasture is good. Southern Area:—Due to inadequate moisture crops in south central and the southwestern areas show effects of the hot weather and high winds during the past week and rain is needed in some districts where wheat is rapidly heading, with straw inclined to be short. In the remaining sections conditions are satisfactory, with general improvement in crops and pastures.

MANITOBA:—Wheat is approximately 70 p.c. headed, at an average height of 22 inches. Coarse grains are patchy in some sections. Insect damage is confined principally to the coarse grains. In scattered localities conditions generally are satisfactory.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Grain crops have benefited by recent rains and warmer weather. Root crops are in good condition and promise well. An average crop of straw berries is being marketed, other small fruits are plentiful. The planting of tobacco has been completed. Pastures are in good condition.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

Hail wheat is filling and coloring well and a heavy crop appears assured. Barley shows good promise. Oats are improving and promise at least an average crop. Cutting of heavy hay and clover crops has been delayed by rains but is well underway. Pasture is ample. Root crops, corn and tobacco are progressing favorably.

MARITIME PROVINCES

Grain crops continue to progress satisfactorily. Potatoes show good growth and other root crops are doing well. Apple orchards give promise of an average crop. Pastures are in good condition.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

In the Kootenays and Nicola Valley districts rain is badly needed for the grain crop on non-irrigated land. In all other parts occasional rains have benefited crops although cool weather is hindering the growth of vegetables. Heavy yields of tree fruits are in prospect. Cherries have suffered some damage from recent rain. Warm weather is needed to ripen heavy crop of raspberries in prospect. Pasture is plentiful.

IRRIGATE AND MAKE

Elsewhere in this issue is an article prepared by J. W. Evans, Field Superintendent for the Raymond Beet Growing district, urging growers to irrigate. Such advice should be unnecessary, but we seem to want to do it these laborers as long as possible, in the hope that rain will come and save us the trouble.

In the table of moisture needs for beets we find that in July beets need 8 inches of moisture, and in August 5 inches to make the best possible growth of root and increased tonnage. Imagine, if you can, what the country would look like as far as the hay and grain crops are concerned if we had 13 inches of rainfall in these 2 months. When we get a month with three inches or more we have a great deal of rain, and it is seldom if ever that we get eight inches of rain in July. When we do, it means floods and damage to other crops.

It is also pointed out that during the next six weeks, the beets will make three-fourths of the season's tonnage, so that this statement should be enough to cause every grower to get busy with the water and see that the beets are irrigated as often and as much as they need, providing of course that the supply of water in the canal will permit it.

A further comment on this matter is that the study of this brief article of Mr. Evans' to every farmer. This is a year when dollars will count up fast when it comes to trying to satisfy those we owe, and every additional ton of beets that can be produced on an acre of land, is practically 100 per cent. clear profit, because the acre has to be hoed, cultivated and irrigated just as much to raise six tons to the acre, as it does to raise twelve, and the only difference in the total cost of production is the loading and the hauling, leaving by the greater portion of the added tonnage as clear profit to the grower.

Do you want maximum returns from your beet crop this year? If you do then irrigate. Don't let every little cloud lead you into believing that it will be a cloudburst an irrigation is unnecessary. Keep the surface moisture there so that the beet can grow as fast and as large as it wants to, and see the difference in final returns from the beet crop.

Cholera epidemic is taking a heavy toll in China and an intense heat wave is adding to the horrors. In one section it is reported as nearly 100 per cent. fatal.

U. F. A. Convention

The delegates to the conference represent a total population of 450,000,000 people and countries that occupy an area of 13,909,582 square miles, or about one quarter of the known surface of the globe. Of this population about 60,000,000 are whites. The remainder include 315,000,000 of the native races of Ceylon and India; 40,000,000 of the black races; 6,000,000 Arabs; 6,000,000 Malays; 1,000,000 Chinese and 1,000,000 Polynesians and various other elements. The religions represented include 210,000,000 Hindus; 100,000,000 Mohammedans; 80,000,000 Christians of which 67,000,000 are classed as Protestants; 12,000,000 Buddhists; 12,000,000 Animists; 4,000,000 Sikhs, Jains and Parsees; 750,000 Jews and the remainder Polytheists.

Because of a heavy increase in the purchase of raw materials by manufacturers in Canada, observers are of the opinion that the bottom of the depression is reached and that we are on the road to recovery now. We hope they are right.

Irrigation Profitable

The Sugar Beet requires more water in July than in any other month. The water requirements for the different months as determined by careful experiments to produce a maximum yield of sugar beets are as follows:—

May .....	1 inch
June .....	3 inches
July .....	8 inches
August .....	5 inches
September .....	2 inches
Total .....	19 inches

There has been supplied by rainfall during the six months ending June 30th eleven inches. After deducting the losses by evaporation and transpiration, there is no doubt a considerable deficiency of available water in the first four feet of soil at the present time. Hence the necessity of supplying by irrigation as soon as possible some additional soil moisture.

During the next six weeks every acre of beets should make at least three-fourths of the season's tonnage, and it will do it if the weeds are kept down and a proper moisture content is maintained in the soil. It would not be too much to say, that on good fertile land there should be an increase of 10 tons per acre between now and Sept. 1st. It can be done, but to do it you must irrigate at once. Prompt action in this respect means profit. Delay means loss. Which do you want, profit or loss?

It's up to you, Mr. Beetgrower. Be wise. In this time of depression every dollar counts. Irrigate and make.

J. W. EVANS,
Field Superintendent.

FEEDING THE FAMILY

It is not an easy matter to feed a family properly and economically. This responsibility rests upon the mother. In the selection of foods she should follow certain principles, and if she does the result will be balanced meals for the family at a minimum expense.

A balanced diet is one which contains a sufficiency of all the various substances which the body requires from foods. A balanced diet provides the materials needed for the proper growth and functioning of the body; in other words, for healthy development and healthy living.

Each member of the family requires the right amounts of protein, fat, starch or sugar, vitamins and mineral salts. Milk is the one food which comes nearest to supplying all these requirements in the proper amounts. However, milk alone is not a suitable diet after the first few months of life, and so we must look to other foods to supply the food requirements of the family.

The commonest fault in the family diet is that it does not contain a sufficient amount of those foods which are comparatively rich in vitamins and minerals. Meat, white bread and potatoes are good foods and should be included in the diet. Nevertheless when they make up practically the whole diet, then the diet is unbalanced and is not satisfactory.

and is not satisfactory.

The family diet should include milk and milk products such as butter and cheese; fresh green vegetables and tomatoes, either raw or tinned; fresh fruits; eggs and liver. These are the foods which provide the vitamins and minerals which are so often lacking in the family diet.

In working out a minimum food budget to maintain health, it is estimated that for a family of five, 13 quarts of milk a week are required, which means that over one-quarter of the money spent on food goes for milk. One fifth of the money should be used to buy vegetables, potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, turnips, cabbage and onions.

The general tendency is to spend too large a percentage of the money available for food on meats and sweets. This is not a criticism of meats and sweets, but merely a statement that when there is a limited amount of money available it is necessary to get the most out of every cent and at the same time secure a balanced diet.

In order to do this it is necessary for the mother to plan what she will buy and how she will arrange the meals.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 164 College Street, Toronto will be answered personally by letter.

PRICES MUCH LOWER EIGHTY YEARS AGO

Helena, Mont., July 6.—Farmers, today are thinking in terms of prices and costs. The big question is, are prices going up or down?

Referring of course to prices farmers receive for the products they sell.

Which way prices are ultimately going, no one can tell. The general expectation is that they are headed upward.

In times like these many wild and senseless plans for making prices rise are being offered to the farmers. The more trying and difficult the times, the larger the number of these plans.

Fortunately, however, Montana farmers have had enough experience to know that miracles in agriculture can't be produced merely by resolutions and paper plans, no matter how attractively they appear when written.

Prices, after all, are only relative. There is a deep relationship between prices and costs.

Recently a diary written in 1845 came to light, in which some figures are quoted, reflecting the conditions of what have been described as "the good old days."

In those days, the dairy states, carpenter wages were $1.50 for a ten hour day. Carpenters then made coffins. A 7 foot coffin cost $7, a 5 foot coffin $5 and so on down to the smaller sizes.

Wood sold at 50 cents a wagon load. A load was considered a cord. A bushel of corn brought 16 cents; butter 8 cts. a pound; sugar 2 pounds for 2 cents; coffee 3 1-2 pounds for 50 cents, and potatoes 16c. a bushel.

Eggs sold for 5 cents a dozen. Four chickens brought only 40 cents. Beef was 2 1-2 cents a pound. Nineteen pounds of lard cost 95 cents. Five hundred pounds of hay sold for 75 cents. Pickled pork was 4 cents a pound. A fore-quarter of beef weighing 148 pounds brought only $3.70.

The man who kept the diary took up a homestead of 160 acres at $1.25 an acre, farmed for 16 years and sold his farm for about $10,000.—Sweet Grass Examiner.

Work is progressing rapidly on the grain galleries which rise 80 feet above the quayside at Churchill port. Last year these galleries, which carry the grain to the deep sea ships, had only been constructed to a point where they permitted the use of live grain spouts. ## Splendid Empire Achievements

An enterprising Sydney, N.S.W., newspaper, in order to convey to its readers the magnitude of the huge new Harbour Bridge recently constructed at the Australian port, printed the composite picture shown above for the enlightenment of its readers.

Thrilled by descriptive stories of the new Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Britain" that appeared in Australian papers when that giant liner was sped on its maiden voyage last year by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Australians have taken an interest in the "Empress of Britain" as Canadians, and the picture, labelled "Empire Achievements," paid tribute to the enterprise of the Dominion and the Commonwealth. Underneath was the legend, "Sydney Harbour Bridge, opened March, 1932. Length of Arch Span 1,650 feet, breadth 160 feet, weight of arch steelwork, 38,000 tons. "Empress of Britain," in service May 1931, length 760 feet 6 inches, breadth 97 1/2 feet, gross registered tonnage 42,500."

The "Empress of Britain" on her voyage from Canada June 16th, 1932, justified Australia's faith in her as an Empire achievement by creating the magnificent new record, Father Point to Cherbourg, in four days, seven hours, 58 minutes.
